Mr. Tumulty was greeted by a tugful of New Jersey admirers down the bay and at the pier a score of Democratic friends told him about the Republican overturn in his State last month.

In Berlin Mr. Tumulty talked with Count Von Bernstorff, former German Ambassador to the United States, who said that after the first battle of the Marne he had wired the Kaiser from Washington asking him to make peace. Mr. Tumulty said he could see no complete solution in the world's troubles except real Christian civilization. People are tired of the old shibboleths and the old slogans. Back to Christ and the Globe show stepped on the stage, the world. As for myself, I am willing to take the Commandments, without the Harvey reservations."

Poilowing the Vienness and Parielus custom Henry W. Savage will offer a 'repetion generale' of the new musical production 'The Clinging Vine.' at the Knickerbocker Theater on Sunday afterwoon, December 24, thereby enabling the reviewers not only to feel Viennesse, but also free to write at leisure. Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former wife of James Stanley Joyce, millionairs lumberman, has led such an active life during the last two years that her mind is a bit hazy regading certain dates and events in connection with the charse that Nelson B. Basanko of Port Washington, L. L., formerly assistant manager of the Fifth avenue branch of the Metropolitan Trust Company, stole $2,000 from her deposit.

"I have traveled so much in the last two years that my mind has not had reom for details," explained the former chorus girl yesterday when she appeared before Judge Nott and a jury in General Sessions to testify against Basanko.

Miss Joyce's memory was faulty in several instances. She was certain she said that she had deposited with the bank on December 1, 1921, $14,000 in cash and $1,500 in Liberty bonds. She saim atted, however, that she had casualer tossed the deposit stip into her hamiliag without looking at it and had later lost it.

She didn't remember whether she had siven Basanko her jewelry to keep for her seven weeks on one occasion. This jewelry, she casually remarked, was worth $1,000,000. Nor did she recall whether her bank statement, which she thought she received before salling for Europe in February, 1922, showed whethat she was credited with a deposit she were charmed out by Judge Nott, who sustained objections by Mr. Wallace.
